Everest Expedition and Kalapatthar with the panoramic glimpse of Everest Glacier. After exploring Kathmandu, the adventure starts in earnest with the famous flight to Lukla direct from Kathmandu or alternatively 135km drive to Manthali Airport, Ramechhap and short fly to Lukla, a Sherpa village where we start the actual trek. The Everest Base Camp trek follows the course of the Dudh Koshi, the 'River of Milk', gradually climbing through forests of rhododendron and magnolia. You'll experience the quick succession of climate and vegetation zones. After reaching Namche Bazaar, where we take a rest day, the route continues along the Imja Khola River to the valley below Everest. Following further the traditional route via Lobuche and Gorak Shep, we then reach our destination: the Everest Base Camp.

The Everest Base Camp Trek passes through a various small villages which gives you the opportunity to experience Sherpa customs, culture and their famed hospitality first-hand. Unsurprisingly, the photographic opportunities are limitless (so don't forget your devices and charger!). When planning your itinerary to Everest Base Camp, we arrange it so there is enough time to explore Kalapattar, a great vantage point from which you have magnificent view of Everest's south side as well as the Khumbu glacier. Most of our clients agree that this is the highlight of their experience and an essential component to the trek.

Snowy Horizon offers the trek throughout the year and thanks to our experience that we are confident it'll be an unforgettable experience to you.
